The Corps objectives are to develop an interest and skill in basic seamanship and in it's naval applications, to train them in seagoing skills, patriotism, courage, self-reliance and kindred values. Cadets train aboard the ships and shore activities of the Navy and Coast guard, and are authorized by the Secretary of the Navy to wear Naval uniforms appropriately marked with US Naval Sea Cadets Corps insignia. There are approximately 180 units in operation in almost every state of the union as well as Puerto Rico and Guam, with over 7,000 cadets. The US Naval Sea Cadet Corps affords equal opportunity for participation to all American youth without regard to race, color, religion or sex, all in an anti-drug and anti-gang environment.
